

Swapping Flivvers No Theft Because They All Look Alike

You May Take the Other Fellow's and Not Know It, Police Are Told.

A discovery that may go far toward solution of the missing flivver mystery on which detectives of the automobile squad have been at work more than three months was reported yesterday by Patrolman Carroll of the Morrisania police station, after he had served a summons on Jacob Lieberman, No. 2925 Creston Avenue, the Bronx, for parking his Ford sedan before a fire hydrant in Kingsbridge Head near Grand Avenue.

Examining Lieberman's driver's card Carroll found it did not correspond with the car's license number. Lieberman, when questioned about this, said somebody drove off with his car a month ago leaving the one he was using in place of it. As the cars were identical in construction and equipment he had continued to use the other fellow's machine pending recovery of his own.

Detectives later found Lieberman's car in possession of Harry Cohen, No. 285 Prospect Place, Brooklyn. Cohen was astounded when accused of having taken Lieberman's sedan. He at first insisted the car parked before his home was his own and that some one had switched the number plate. When convinced he had taken the wrong car and faced a charge of having stolen it he called Lieberman on the telephone and asked how he would trade. Lieberman offered to accept $25 to boot, explaining how Cohen's engine pointed on a hill. The matter was adjusted on that basis.

"One Ford sedan is just like every other of the same issue," Cohen said. "When a man drives away with the wrong flivver it ain't always because he's a thief. Every time you got to look at the number before you know if it's your own car. Sometimes you are in a hurry and a few days later you see the number on the plate ain't your number. Maybe you got the worst of it, like me, or maybe you got the best of it, like Lieberman. Say! Flivvers nowadays is the same as umbrellas. People leave them around everywhere."

WOODCHUCKS AT 50 CENTS SOLD FOR FOOD.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 21.—At the public markets held on the streets here three times a week the farmers of the surrounding country offer a great variety of products, the latest being woodchucks. One farmer found a ready sale at 50 cents each for fat little woodchucks dressed ready for cooking.

Women Workers' Poll Favors Modification of the Dry Law

The Liberty Digest's special Prohibition poll of 2,200,000 women shows a slight increase in dry sentiment, according to figures in the Aug. 19 issue, but advocates of strict enforcement remain far in the minority.

The main poll continues to show the same preponderance of sentiment against the law, but with a very slight dry gain.

The latest factory poll taken among the workers in a big automobile works shows the following:

For enforcement..... 171
For modification..... 2,170

For repeal..... 613
That poll shows 16 to 1 against "bone dryness," one of the "wettest" so far taken. Combined the four factory polls show:

For enforcement..... 611
For modification..... 4,519
For repeal..... 2,570
The following is a summary of 708,505 ballots:

For continuance and strict enforcement..... 271,654
For modification..... 290,172
For repeal..... 146,679
The figures that best show, so far, the attitude toward Prohibition of the women are those in the following summary of the first 21,467 votes:

New England States—For enforcement, 1,297; for modification, 1,518; for repeal, 702.
Middle Atlantic States—For enforcement, 3,078; for modification, 4,842; for repeal, 3,455.
East North Central States—For enforcement, 1,721; for modification, 1,352; for repeal, 699.
West North Central States—For enforcement, 232; for modification, 232; for repeal, 158.
South Atlantic States—For enforcement, 721; for modification, 651; for repeal, 290.

East South Central States—For enforcement, 224; for modification, 1,622; for repeal, 79.
Scattering—For enforcement, 992; for modification, 78; for repeal, 46.
